

The White Feather

We are not going to war – We are going to peace.

I do not believe in the kind of power that is currently trying to rule.

I do not believe in violence.

I do not believe in terror.

I do not believe in tyranny.

I do not believe in this kind of regime

And I do not believe in the power of destruction.

I do believe in human kind.

I do believe in the power of our connection.

I do believe in each and every single person, who, at this very moment, feels fear and doubt, grief, bewilderment, and panic.

Because these are the feelings that show that man has not yet lost the connection, that we do still feel passion, hope, belief and love. That we are still fighting to not lose hope. That we are still fighting for no less than all of our salvation. We are fighting to keep fear from seizing the feelings that make us who we are, that make us human. The fight for trust, deep faith, loyalty, solidarity, compassion, love, fairness.

I am now calling upon these feelings.

There is only one way to make sense of this kind of violence, cruelty and this arbitrariness.

The fear we are feeling right now serves to remind us that we do care about others and that we are, indeed, loving creatures. Fear leads to connection.

Grief shows us that we are destined to something better and higher and that we do believe in peace and we do not deserve any less than that. This kind of grief serves as our deep faith in peace.

And our heart, that we can feel so strongly right now, shows us that we have the strength to carry our belief, our peace, and our love into this world and to create them within. Our heart carries the strength to manifest the change that we need in this world.

Every single one in connection with our neighbor.

We shall not stop – We are here!

We are going to peace. We are not going to war.

We are the people who are going to change the world.

I do believe in human kind.

It is not the world that creates peace, but the people who live in it.

I do believe in human kind.

We give rise to peace. We are peace.

I do believe in the power that connects us.

I do believe in man who feels, loves and won't give up.

I do believe that based on this connection we have the ability to create something great out of the apparent nothing.

I do believe in reason that lets us see the truth.

I do believe that truth and only truth has the ability to withstand.

I do believe that each and every one of us carries the truth within himself.

I do believe that truth only carries love within itself.

I know that love creates peace.

We are going to peace.

Like a white feather in the wind.